Japs Agree to All Terms Of Potsdam Declaration; MacArthur Gets High Post

By AL JEDLICKA

Forty years after its armies marched into Korea to establish a foothold on the Asiatic mainland, Japan's course of imperial conquest came to a dramatic end on the evening of August 14 with the unqualified acceptance of the Potsdam declaration subscribed to by the U.S., Britain, China and Russia. Announced to an anxious nation by President Harry S. Truman, the Jap surrender came three years, eight months and one week after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

With the Allied powers consenting to his retention on the throne to assure the surrender of Japanese armies scattered throughout Asia and the submission of the homeland to the stiff terms imposed, Emperor Hirohito ordered the nation to lay down its arms as the Tokyo radio reported thousands of downcast subjects bowed in grief before the gates of the imperial palace lamenting their defeat.

Having led American ground § forces back over the vast tracts of the Pacific to the rying the fight to the enemy, and Harbor, General MacArthur rates as one of the bloodiest in was designated to accept the history. Nipponese surrender along with representatives of the other Allied nations.

Coming four days after Tokyo's first offer to give up the fight provided the emperor's sovereignty were respected, and three months after V-E day, Japan's surrender was greeted with wild enthusiasm throughout the U.S. end of the most destructive and costly war in history without waiting for President Harry S. Truman's official V-J day proclamation.

In accepting the Allied terms, Japan agreed to the total reduction of its once proud empire, with hope for the future based upon the organization of a free democracy within the home islands of Honshu, Kyushu, Hokkaido and Shikoku,

Under the Potsdam ultimatum. Japan must eliminate the influence of those elements which have encouraged conquest; give up Manchuria, Korea and other overseas acquisitions; disarm all armed forces; permit the revival of democracy and freedom of speech, religion and thought; and submit to Allied occupation of designated points in the homeland until post-war security has been established.

At the same time, Japan was promised an opportunity for orderly development once a peaceful government had been created, with retention of such industries as would maintain its internal economy and eventual access to raw materials and world trade.

The war ended just as the atomic bomb threatened the obliteration of Japan's sprawling industrial settlements, with Hiroshima and Nagasaki already badly mangled by the bomb's destructive capacity so far exceeded that of ordinary missiles that it brought a quick reaction from a government that had planned continuation of the conflict from underground bastions despite increasing B-29 attacks.

Besides threatening to lay Japan waste, the atomic bomb also was credited with blowing Russia into the conflict, thus bringing the total Allied weight to bear against the Nipponese. In all, these two events served to climax the growing tempo of the Allied drive in the Pacific, which saw U.S. forces virtually sitting on Japan's doorstep at the cessation of hostilities.

With the navy and air force carwith army and marine troops slashdoorstep of Japan following ing forward in island to island the crippling blow at Pearl fighting, the war in the Pacific

> From the very beginning the U.S. encountered a bitter and fanatical foe, ardent and well disciplined, willing to fight to the last cartridge even when completely enveloped. All through the war, the toll of Jap killed far surpassed the number captured, indicating the nature of their defense.

Because of the close teamwork required in the over-all operations, it would be difficult to single out one outstanding hero, though General MacArthur's fiery stand against the which joyously celebrated the enemy in the early stages of the conflict and his later redemption of lost territories made him the symbol of the American spirit.

Beside the name of MacArthur must be added those of Admiral Nimitz, who directed U.S. naval operations in the vast Pacific theater, and General Le May, whose B-29s seriously reduced Japan's in-

Recovering quickly from the black days immediately after Pearl Harbor, when the Nipponese overran much of the Pacific, the U.S. checked the enemy tide in the spring of 1942, when the American fleet stopped the Japs' southeastward drive in the battle of the Coral sea and then thwarted their eastward surge at Midway.

From then on, the U. S., building up tremendous military and material strength under a unified front at home, was on the march, with the Japanese seeking time to consolidate their newly won position as the overruling Asiatic power by bitter delaying action in their outposts. With the navy severing vital Japanese supply lines to these outposts, and with the ground forces isolating enemy units into disorganized resistance pockets on invaded islands, the American advance in the Pacific far exceeded expectations, with the end of the European war finding U. S. sea, land and air forces perched right on Nippon's doorstep.

Though the main body of Japanese troops had not been touched by the steady U.S. advances westward. the American navy's mastery of the sea lanes as far as the Chinese coast interrupted the shipment of vital material to the home islands for industrial processing, and the B-29s' terrific bombardment of manufacturing centers greatly curtailed output. With deliveries of materials cut, and output dwindling, the effectiveness of an estimated 4,000,000 remaining enemy troops stood to be severely limited. On top of it all, Russia's invasion of Manchuria and threat to Japheld China promised to tap the only remaining important enemy indus-

EMPEROR:

His Background

Their authority re-established with the overthrow of the military governors in 1868, the Japanese emperors, supposedly descended from the sun goddess, have exercised their mythical power for the unification of the country to facilitate its imperial development.

With the overthrow of the shogunate shortly after Admiral Perry opened the door of Japan to the outside world, the simple island people, previously owing strict allegiance to the military clan, easily transferred their blind obedience to the mikado.

The present mikado, Hirohito, is puny, nearsighted man of 44. He is called the 124th emperor of Japan by the Japanese court authorities. When he ascended the thron? in 1926, he chose the word "Showa," meaning "enlightenment and peace," to describe his reign.

Many political experts believe peace, but as the puppet of the mili ary clique had to go along with little real power. His actual "reign" began in 1921, then as prince re gent he ruled in his father's stead He was married in 1924 and is the father of one son and three daugh-

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, 1 The fifth is the police attitude. If Washington, D. C. There is a small group in Washington very much concerned over a matter which is a part of reconversion and about which they can do very little. That is the question of race riots likely to accompany demobilization. I was surprised to learn how predictable these clashes are, from the following statement by Alfred Mc-Clung Lee in a pamphlet produced by a non-profit agency, the American Council of American Race Relations. It was this:

"The federal office of facts and figures (later called the office of War Information) had a confidential report 15 months before the 1943 Detroit race riot that included this sentence: 'Unless some socially constructive steps are taken shortly. the tension that is developing is very likely to burst into active conflict.' The day after the rioting began, the Detroit Free Press stated: "I'wo months ago everybody in Detroit familiar with the situation knew that race riots were inevitable." It is worth noting that the professional observers were much farther ahead than the newspaper - and newspaper reporters are pretty highly trained investigators themselves. And they did know what was coming well in advance. But the fact remained that nobody did anything about it. And that is where you and I step into the picture. Now nobody but a very small class of professional incitors of riot want race-riots anymore than anyone but a very small class of professional criminals are in favor of crime. But most people do not realize that these clashes can be avoided and very few indeed realize that they are symptoms and not the disease itself.

The basic cause of the group tensions which burst into savage flame. destroy property, interfere with business and nearly always cost lives, is insecurity, just as insecurity is one of the basic causes of wars. A man with a job and firm prospects of keeping it who lives in does not want a riot with anybody. It is the man who is unhappy and because he is not able to do anything about it, who looks around for a scapegoat upon whom he can blame all his troubles. He naturally turns against a group whose members have a different appearance and different customs from his own. The long-range cure for this disease is better living conditions, housing and employment. But it is not of the long-range treatment I want to speak, but of the immediate, simple things that you and I can do to stop these tensions before they break.

Seven Steps for Breaking Tension

First, there are seven things you must know about. One of the first signs of trouble is the rumor crop. You begin to hear a lot of stories most of which later will prove to have been untrue. They may be started by subversive groups; some will have a grain of truth in them. They will include tales of planned, imminent violence; of some group arming itself for attack or outbreak. Then come stories of violent asthat personally Hirohito wanted sault, crime and murder. This creates the beginning of tension; the group accused becomes frightened their designs. Actually he wields and shows it. This lends color to the tales. Then come the "incidents." Incidents usually begin to occur in crowded places. They might be passed off and forgotten if a background of hate, fear and suspicion had not been built up. As one observer said to me: "Riots always start when folks get out and bump into each other."

The third point to look for when it is clear that rumors have been thick and incidents have begun to happen is some subversive group program for switching industry which may be promoting the trouble for its own ends. Some of these groups will have very high and mighty ideals and very frequently they will be wrapped up in the flag. (Ku Klux, Black Legion, etc.)

The fourth point to watch is crime reports because it is really the hooligan element which finally steps | greatest threat to the system of n to do the actual rioting.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Flicka's colt, long overdue, is born on Goose Bar ranch, high in the Rockies. Ken Mc-Laughlin, Flicka's 12-year-old owner, is startled to see that the colt is white, and evidently a throwback to the Albino, a wild horse that is Flicka's grandsire. Rob McLaughlin, Ken's father, rides out to bring in Banner, the stallion. With him go Colonel Harris and Charlie Sargent, millionaire horse breeder. Colonel Harris gets a wild ride. Later the party gets its first glimpse of the white colt. Nobody likes it but Ken. His mother, who names the horses, first calls it the Goblin, but later changes to Thunderhead for Ken's benefit. Ken tries to keep faith in his horse.

CHAPTER VI

They went down to dinner. "And now," said Rob genially,

"Ken's got something to tell us. He's going to tell us who is really the sire of that white foal up in the corral. Ken had thought he was prepared for it, but it was a shock all the same, and unpleasant feelings went through him. He couldn't find words.

His mind was in a fog.

"The sire!" exclaimed Harris, astonished, "Why, what's this? I thought Banner was the sire of all your foals." "Not that one." grinned Rob. "Your mare is perfectly safe, Mort.

You'll have a fine little sorrel colt —dead ringer for Banner—when she foals next summer. I told you, Banner breeds true. Sorrels. Like as peas in a pod."
"Hah!" exclaimed Charley.

"You're crawling, Just because you've got a throwback, you're going to disown it! Didn't think it of you, Rob!" "Come on, Ken," said Rob, "who is the sire of that little goblin up there?" Ken, without turning around, jerked his head and elbow in the direction of Charley Sargent. "That big black stud of his!" 'Whose?' "Mr. Sargent's." "Ouch!" shouted Sargent. Then, 'Do you let him tell whoppers like that, Rob? Or is he given to pipe dreams?" Rob was as astonished as anyone. 'Appalachian, Ken?" "Yes. sir."

"Why, he doesn't even know Appalachian," shouted Sargent, "Ken -did you ever see him? He's never been off my ranch, and that's twenty miles away."

Ken answered, "He's that big black stallion with three white socks and a white star between his eyes. He hangs out in that little draw by the quakin asp and the box elder where the fence crosses Twenty miles away by the high-way, but about sight way, but about eight miles of straight riding across country. Only one gate to go through, and your buck fence to take down.'

There was a shocked silence. Then, as Ken's words sank home. Charley Sargent jumped to his feet. His long brown face was serious for once, his big hat a little awry, a frown between his brows.

"I don't believe it! It couldn't be! Why-that little misbegotten pup up there-son of Appalachian!" In two strides he reached Ken, seized him by the shoulder and yanked him up. "Stand up here." He set the boy on the low wooden table facing them

Ken's face was a little pale, but his dark blue eyes looked at his father without flinching.

"Come on, Ken," said Rob, "let's have the story. I'll begin it for you. A year ago last spring we decided Flicka should be bred."

"No, sir, it was the fall before that. About Thanksgiving time. You and mother said we'd breed Flicka as soon as she was old enough and get a foal." "That's right. I remember now.

You and Howard were home from school for the Thanksgiving week-

"Yes. And when we went back to school, all winter long I was thinking about that. And when I came home for the spring vacation at Easter, you remember you let me start working with Flicka and riding her a little, because she was just exactly two years old and strong and well-grown. And you said I was light enough so it wouldn't hurt her back any. And I worked her out with the blanket and surcingle and began to ride her. And during that vacation do you remember the time you took me in to town with you and we met Mr. Sargent and had dinner with him at the Mountain Hotel? And he was talking about his stud, about Appalachian. And bra-well, praising him and praising him. And then he got to brag-well, praising all the colts he had had from him-

Ken paused, looking interrogatively at his father, and Rob grinned. 'Yes, I remember. He praised 'em, It's a habit he's got."

Harris laughed and Sargent's hand pinched Ken's shoulder a little

"The hell you did!" said Charley. "Well-" with some eagerness, what did you think of him?" "Oh," Ken's voice rose in enthusiasm, "just what you did! I agreed with all the proud things you said about him!"

"Thank you for that, son!" "And what then, Ken?" asked

"Well, that was about the time to breed Flicka. And you told me to see to it." Rob's eyes narrowed and glanced away as he tried to remember. Nell nodded. "I remember that, Rob. You had moved Banner and the brood mares up onto the Saddle Back. There were just the saddle mares in-Flicka and Taggert. And you told Ken it was his responsibility, and that when she came around he was to take her to the stallion." Rob nodded. "I remember. Well, Ken's words came with a struggle. "Well you see, I had been thinking and thinking about Appalachian, because we wanted Flicka's foal to be a racer, and Banner was never a racer. And when I remembered all Mr. Sargent had said about him, and every colt he had got by him, why then-why then-

"Well?" prompted Charley. "Well, when she came in heat, I just rode her over there one day-it took me most of the day-and put her in the pasture with Appalachian -and when she was bred I rode her home again. That's all." There was silence for a moment as Ken finished his recital. Suddenly Harris burst out laughing. Howard stared in open-mouthed awe at his younger brother. The stunt itself was nothing to the secrecy with which it had been concealed for more than a year. It was a faculty

"Flicka to Appalachian, 12:30 p. m. June 28."

Howard was envious of-to do unusual things—and then keep them entirely to yourself, Rob said, "You took that long, sixteen-mile ride on your mare?" "Yes, sir. I got off and rested her now and then. You were letting me ride her because you said she had grown so well and I hadn't." It was true. Ken was still no larger than he had been at ten. Rob thought again. "You must ribly stubborn look. have been away most of the day. I don't remember it."

Ken said, "It was a day when you and mother had been in town. And you stayed there for lunch and you didn't get home until late in the afternoon." Ken was keeping his biggest punch to the end. "Anyway, I can prove it to you, dad," he pers." added.

"How?" Ken stepped down from the witness stand and vanished into the house. They heard his steps going upstairs. He returned holding out a paper, folded and wrinkled and soiled. He handed it to Rob who opened it with a mystified air and read it silently, then passed it to Charley.

Sargent stared at it a long time, then read aloud slowly, "FLICKA TO APPALACHIAN, 12.30 P. M. JUNE 28th.

Sargent flung down the paper, sprang to his feet and shouled, "I don't believe it!" then, with one long leap over the flower border, turned his back and went striding up to the corral.

"This beats me," said Rob, "I

Charley gulped down the drink Rob poured for him and as Rob filled the other glasses, held his out again. "Hope this won't make you take to drink, Charley," said Harris dryly. "Brace up! Lots of people have family secrets to hide!" "We won't give it away, Charley," chuckled Rob.

Charley didn't even hear them. He threw off his hat and ran one hand distractedly through his hair. "Maybe it didn't take," he exclaimed suddenly. "Maybe, later on in the summer she was bred by some other stallion. That's it!" he said excitedly, "You said the colt came months later than you expected!"

But Ken shook his head, "She was never out on the range again. You set, that was the first summer I had been able to do much with her or ride her at all. She was a twoyear-old. And I had her down here in the stable or the home pasture all summer so that she would be well schooled by the time I had to leave the ranch in the fall. And there weren't any other stallions around."

Nell nodded. "That's true, She was underfoot all summer. Ken did everything but have her in the kitchen.'

"I did have her in the kitchen, Mother! Remember the time you put the oat bucket in the kitchen sink, and I called her in, and she walked right in and went all around the kitchen, looking at everything and smelling it, and then ate her oats at the sink?"

"Look here, Ken," said Rob, "do you realize that you stole that service? You heard what Mr. Sargent said at dinner—that the stud fee for Appalachian is $250.00." "I've always told you, Ken," his father rubbed it in, "that you cost me money every time you turn "Cost you money!"

"Well-you owe that money to Charley here and you can't pay it. "No. sir." "Someone's got to pay it."

"I should say-ay-ay not!" exclaimed Charley. "If that's the Appalachian's foal, you owe me for nothing. On the contrary, I owe Ken an apology. And the nice little mare Ken began to breathe again and glanced at his father to see if there were to be any penalties from that "If Mr. Sargent forgives you the debt, Ken, I've got nothing to say."

"Here comes the Goblin now!" exclaimed Howard. Gus had let the horses out of the corral to pasture and Flicka and her foal and Taggert and the geldings were coming to water at the round stone fountain in the middle of the Green. The men and boys went down to look at them more closely. "That's a beautiful mare," said Charley, looking at Flicka's glossy golden coat, her full, flaxen tail and mane, and the gentleness and intelligence in the golden eyes she turned to them. She mouthed the cool water, letting streams of it run from her muzzle, then turned her head to her foal again. "Dad," said Ken miserably, "is he-really-so awful?" Rob hestitated. "Well, Ken, nobody could say he has good conformation. He is shaped like a fullgrown horse, a brone at that. He'll ave to change a good deal." "But he will, dad! He'll grow!" "He'll have to grow in some spots and shrink in others. That jughead!" Ken looked at the head. It was certainly too large. It had a ter-"Hi, fellahl" said Charley to the foal, then turned to Ken. "Well, you win, Ken. I believe your slory. Your out into the darkness, watching. For Harris laughed and Sargent's hand punched Ken's shoulder a little harder and he said, "Get on with your story, young man."

"Well, so you see—when I went back to school after that Easter vacation I was thinking about Applachian."

Rob groaned. "And when Ken begins to think about something, I don't mind telling you, it's a single track mind."

"So," said Ken doggedly, "when I got home in June that's what I was that I was thinking about. I rode over severeral times on Cigarette to look at Appalachian."

"It's true all right," said Colonel that face was straight."

"This beats me," said Rob. "I didn't dream it was Appalachian. I what could you see in the linky blackness? Or even if it was that the Albino was daylight what could you see but thought was that the Albino was somewhere in the neighborhood again and that he had got to the mare—or perhaps that Ken's mind been working overtime and that he had taken her out to him."

vate enterprise. This fact has been proved to a lot of honest people under war-time regimentation, needless restraints, questionable rationing and discourteous petty officials. It is losing favor. We have heard a lot about post-war demobilization of the Army and Navy. Evidently the public wants to hear about the demobilization of bureaucracy. · 🔞 -

THE LOW DOWN

One thing one U S A could do, and pronto, is to sit down and dope out where we will be coming out 10 years hence, if we keep on putting more of our time and money taking care of folks in foreign countries versus our own folks here in Montana and Kentucky and South Caveling and it other transfers.

Right Turn

Plain people in America are tired of regimentation. The figures show it. Late in April big-city newspapers were publishing tables of figures that grew out of a survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion, popularly called a "Gallup Poll." An article by George Gallup himself accompanied the figures I examined and they were both interesting and encouraging.

Nothing but victory in war could make bigger news. Nothing short of unconditional surrender by all of America's national enemies could be more gratifying than this: Suddenly there has come a popular yearning for the days when Mr. Customer was boss, when people got paid according to what their work was worth, when they had a right to anything their money would buy.

Back to Earth Dr. Gallup says, "there are indi-cations today that the largest group of the American people are not now particularly interested in seeing many changes or reforms in this country after the war. In fact, a survey just completed across the nation by the Institute reveals that the majority of Americans want things to remain pretty much as they were before the war."

The head of the Institute told a few hopeful details about individual answers to his questions. He says a good share of the minority who wish for post-war changes want to change back, back to conditions we knew years before the war. He didn't say so, but indicated clearly that the people are longing for the WPA, the CCC and the NYA.

Pompous Protests People are beginning to walk around the idea of dictated social change to look at the back side of it. The gold paint is beginning to rub off those cheap theories about all citizens doing a similar amount of work and drawing about the same pay, government guaranteed jobs for everybody, politically run banks and stores, regimented farmers, standardized houses, clothes and food. The sawdust is showing through.

The famous surveyor of public opinion grouped into three classes everybody his scouts questioned. The break-down was by educational attainment, (1) college, (2) high school and (3) grade school people. Now who, do you suppose, wants the social changes? The college class— 58% of them. More than half the other two groups disagree but most of the cap-and-gown folk want America made over.

Fake High-Brows Revolutionists, critics of representative government, malcontents and promoters of European theories have done an amazing job in American colleges. The mystery is-How! They smoke-screened the unique prosperity of this world's most favored people and, protected by academic indifference, spotlighted the

VOICE & PROPHECY

Question-Christ was the perfect man, but---

Answer-But that is not enough He was and is the divine Son of God. (John 3:16.) In Hebrews 1:8-10 the Father calls His Son "God." That our Lord and Saviour is more than a perfect man, is shown in Ephesians 3:9: "God, who created all things by Jesus Christ."

Q.—Wasn't Abraham a Jew? A.—He is not so called in the Bible. Abraham's son was Isaac, and his son was Jacob Jacob had twelve sons whose descendants were called the Children of Israel. (Jacob was also called "Israel." Genesis 32:28:) From Judah, one of Jacob's sons, came the name Jew, applied to anyone belonging to the tribe or kingdom of Judah. (2 Kings 16:6; 25:25.) Later the term was extended to include anyone of the Hebrew race who returned from the Captivity. Finally it comprehended all persons of that race throughout the world, (Esther 2:5; Matthew 2:2.)

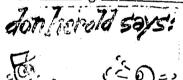

Q.-Astronomy has proved that some of the stars are planets or worlds like ours. What are you going to do with the old Bible idea that this world is the only one?

A. The Bible speaks of more than one world. Hebrews 1:1,2 says: "God, . . . hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son, w: om He hath appointed heir of r'i things, by whom also He made the worlds. And, Hebrews 11:3: "Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear."

Q .- Christians say that we must be born again to become God's children, but Malachi 2:10 says: "Have we not ALL one father? hath not one God created us?"

A.—It is true that by creation all men are brothers. (Acts 17:15-26.) But spiritually, only those who are born again are the children of God. "But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." John 1:12,13.

Ed. Note: Address your questions to the BIBLE QUESTION COLUMN, The Woice of Prophecy, Box 55, Los Angeles 53, Calif. Bible questions of general interest will be answered in this column as space permits.

I know a lot of employers and I know a lot of workers, and they are both good guys.

They ought to know each other If an employer could go home with an average worker, he'd find that he's a good family man, fairminded, honest, and interested in his work. But sometimes he's fooled by some professional rab-ble-rouser into thinking his boss s a skunk. If a worker knew the average employer, he'd see that he is a worrying, headachey guy with a ot of troubles, willing to be fair, and not making nearly as much profit as you might imagine.

"Visit little Evan on off days, borrow him for visits and keep his affection, but don't subject him to the strain of entirely new surroundings until you are

By KATHLEEN NCRRIS

AROLINE TERRY is a war widow, 27 years old. When Evan was killed, she handed her threemonths-old baby over to her much older sister and took a job. The sister and her husband had two older girls. They welcomed little Evan and eventually adopted him. Caroline says she consented to the adoption, never dreaming it was so serious a matter. She knew that she couldn't take care of Evan and that they would give him an ideal home.

Now the sister idolizes the baby, who is just two, and proposes to fight Caroline's sudden resolution to reclaim him. The child is intelligent and beautiful and he adores his adopted sisters. They all live in a pleasant country place. Caroline lives in the hospital where she is a ward nurse.

Caroline's letter says in part: "I know you will sympathize. know everyone must sympathize with a mother whose one longing is to get her child into her arms. My wedded life with his father was only of a few weeks' duration. Then Evan went away to war and I discovered to my consternation that there was to be a baby. My sister comforted me, took care of me-I don't deny that. When the news of Evan's death came, I was much more shocked than grieved, staggered at the idea that I had a boy to raise. Then the offer of my sister and her husband seemed a godsend, I gladly turned him over to such love and care.

Two Widowed Nurses. "Now I am lonely. My plan is to share housekeeping with an older nurse, who has a girl of three, one of us always being with the children. She will get night duty, being at home all day. We are both widowed by the war and we believe we can build a home together. We can rent a five-room apartment for very little and turn the dining room into a playroom. I have never done any housekeeping, but can learn and will spend all my spare time with the bables. My nursing knowledge certainly will spare them many childish diseases.

"If my sister forces me to go to law to recover my child, which she and her husband suggest, would you not feel that I have a very strong

Yes, Caroline, you have a strong case. It was strong in Solomon's time and it is strong today. The claim of a mother to the custody of her own child, especially in these emotional days when war-widowhood makes so strong an appeal, is undeniable. But at the same time I advise you to leave little Evan where he is and stop fooling yourself about the possibility of two nurses, overworked as all nurses are today, taking over the care of two lively youngsters, not yet even at the nursery school stage.

True, you do have free hours. But when, at three o'clock, you finish are in no condition to go home, take cribs and blithely wheel them forth | sive.

A GRUELLING SCHEDULE

Caring for a child is a full time job, particularly during the early years. It is extremely difficult for a young widow to try to work at a job, come home and do the housework, and give her baby adequate attention.

Caroline, a professional nurse, has a little boy. Her husband was killed in action soon after their marriage. For a while Caroline did not know which way to turn. She was relieved when her married sister offered to take the baby. Presently this sister grew so fond of it that she and her husband wanted to adopt it, although they already had two children of their own. Caroline consented, but later regretted it. Now she wants her son back. Her sister refuses to release him, and Caroline is thinking of legal action.

It is Caroline's plan to share housekeeping with another nurse, also a war widow. This other woman has a three-yearold child. By working on different shifts, these mothers hope that one will always be at home with the children.

to market, to struggle with red points and shortages. As for your companion nurse, she is in a worse case, for she gets home perspiring, weary and nervous at seven in the morning, just about the time you leave and just about the time the children are at their hungriest, wettest, noisiest and most exacting.

A Constant Care. Little children of these ages never let up for an instant. If one takes a long, deep sleep in the middle of the day, the other doesn't. One of them is on the job all the time. They must be aired, amused and watched constantly, even in full health, and when colds and fevers come - as they inevitably do - they must be kept apart, specially fed, sponged, changed and comforted. You would be very foolish to let a dream that involves so many untried elements break up an arrangement that is so fortunate for your boy. You don't know that you can live happily with this friend. You don't know anything of cooking, marketing and housework. Perhaps, you can amuse and care for your boy for a brief visit, but this won't be a brief It is far wiser to keep friendly with your sister, visit little Evan on off days, borrow him for visits and keep his affection, but don't subject him to the strain of entirely new surroundings until you are a little surer uncommon. But such disasters serve to underline the importance of substituting improved food producing equipment for the hand tools of the ancients. Man can get along without many things, but not without food or the means of producing it.

With the wider distribution of present-day equipment and the new. even more efficient "machine tools of agriculture" to be available after the war, is it too much to hope that the scourge of famine may be stamped out entirely? In any event, the manufacturers of farm equipment can be relied upon to do their utmost toward that end.

In the meantime, they are continuing to produce both for civilians and military purposes.

Doing Big War Job. Their factories have been turning out immense quantities of munitions and material for use on land, sea and air, and they will continue to do so as long as the emergency requires. They have produced more rean acre of wheat. Today, in pair parts in the last several years inquiries from readers of that pioneer publication as to contour farming and about the plow he used on his son-in-law's Virginia farm. But Jefferson's efforts to teach the pioneer American farmer to build a permanent agriculture, and with it community and national prosperity, were soon forgotten in the rush to virgin lands that opened up to settlers as the Louisiana Purchase and other territorial acquisitions beckoned young farmers toward the mid-West and the Pacific.

While good farmers on their own initiative followed conservation practices, comparatively little was done in an organized manner until the United States department of agriculture in the '20s began taking active notice of the erosion of top soil on cultivated lands; set up erosion-control experiment stations and instituted an intensive study of soil erosion. In 1935 the Soil Conservation service was established and by the middle of last year, 45 of the states had soil conservation districts totaling 1,114 and embracing 620,491,197 acres.

Being vitally interested in this effort long before there was an organized conservation program, the industry naturally got behind and cooperated with the United States government in helping the farmer solve his land problems when the nationwide program was inaugurated. Through personal effort; in their advertisements, and booklets on the subject farm equipment companies, their field representatives and dealers have made helpful suggestions to the farmer on soil fertility, water capacity and pre-venting the loss of soils.

and have maintained throughout this period the high standards for which extent patronage has grown in but a few years is demonstrated by the amount of the federal government civil administrative payrolls, the pay of those employed in government bureaus. In 1939, the total of all such payrolls was $1,613,400,000; by 1943 that total had increased to $6,328,000,000. Of that 1943 total $612,-800,000 was paid to employees in Washington. The remainder of that more than $6,000,000,000 total went to the army of federal employees in the several states. In New York state federal civil employees received in 1943 $629,700,000, as against $171,100,-000 in 1939; in California in 1943 the amount was $555,600,000 as against $89,700,000 in 1939.

In only one state, New Hampshire, was a decrease shown by 3 drop to $8,300,000 in 1943 from $9,900,000 in 1939. It is generally considered that jobs represent votes. Tammany, in the old days, figured each job was good for an average of

MORTGAGE ON WEALTH TO REACH % OF TOTAL

Your house and its furnishings; the local store, its building, fixtures and stock;, your farm, its buildings, stock and machinery; your car, and all other tangible property are all a part of the 385 billion dollar value of the total wealth of the nation. That same total includes all the utilities; the forests and mines; the railroads and industrial plants, arge and small.

According to figures compiled by the Northwestern National Life Insurance company all of this 385 billion dollars of tangible wealth is mortgaged today for more than two-thirds of that total value by our government, federal, state and local, to cover government indebtedness. which we must pay. State and local indebtedness amounts to 15 billion. The remainder of that two-thirds is federal indebtedness. The sum is so large that it is meaningless to any of us until we realize what it means to us as individuals. Before the war ends the mortgage covering government indebtedness will represent more than three-fourths of all gible property we own.

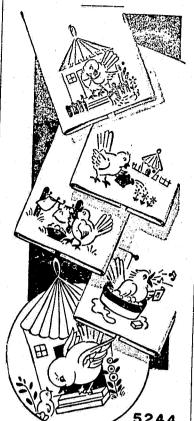

A TRAGEDY IN THE LIFE of the nation that occurred 80 years ago, in 1821, the ex-President of the United | April of 1865, the assassination of President Lincoln, had a direct connection with the introduction of an innovation in travel comfort for the American people. George M. Pullman had built what, for that time, was a luxurious sleeping car. The floor of that car was wider than what was then standard railway equipment; too wide to be used with station platforms and some railroad bridges. The roads would not consider making the needed changes to use the car. President Lincoln's family and others of the funeral party wished to use that car between Chicago and Springfield. The Chicago & Alton railroad hurriedly altered its station platforms and bridges to accommodate the new car. The incident assured the adoption of the new Pullman cars, the first trip of any one of which was made between Chicago and Springfield, on May 2, 1865.

Regardless of who may operate industry there are two expense items that come ahead of labor. One is taxes, which must be paid if the industry is allowed to continue, and the other is material from which the product is made. With this in mind, International Larvester offers a fair average example of distribution to labor. Deducting the cost of taxes and materials from its total receipts, labor received a fraction over 70 per cent as its share of all that materials and government did not take. Could government opcration do a better job for labor?

The cost of fresh vegetables has jumped more on the West coast, and especially in California, than in other sections of the country. The head of lettuce that was sold at from 3 to 5 cents now costs from 12 to 20 cents; the radishes that were two bunches for a nickel are now 10 cents a bunch. So it goes all through the fresh vegetable line. The cause is the elimination of the Japs. They were the truck gardeners. Now that white men have taken over, our American scale on which they live does not permit of Jap prices.

NAZIISM, FASCISM, Communism and other isms, such as those of Spain, China and Japan, are all one and the same thing, totalitarianism. They mean dictatorship; a bureaucracy - planned government under which the individual is subservient to the state. There will be more of it throughout the world before there is less. Much of the increase will be fostered by Russia. It will not be forced so much as it will be accepted by war satiated peoples. Our margin of escape was not too

On the 14th of February, nearly 4,000 bombers and fighters, part British, part American, flew to that vital sector and smashed at and legislators the support they enemy strong points and concentrations. Some planes actually unloaded their bombs only 12 miles in front of the Russian speathead! That was Combined Operations.

In Burma, a British Admital led tough U. S. Rangers, Tommies from all parts of the Empire, Indian Ghurkas and Sikhs, Chinese foot soldiers, carrying weapons made in Bridgeport. All wore different uniforms. But all shared in their hearts a single determination—to destroy the arch-destroyers, to con-

Among the points which the Personal Aircraft Council makes are: 1. the air is free; 2. airspace should be available to all persons for all purposes of air travel; 3, ownership and operation of an airplane should not be restricted to any greater degree than is the comparative use of an automobile. The statement of policy also calls for termination of special clearance, flight plan, and other "paper work"; and that no airport In order to call this situation to built partly with public funds should the attention of the country and to be permitted to exclude any type of Congress and Washington aviation air traffic, unless special fields are provided for such excluded craft.

Navy Reveals Newest Corsair

HERE is the first picture released of the new Vought Corsair—the F4U-4—which! is joined the fleet to smash at Japanese airpower in the enemy's homeland. In the 425-mile-an-hour class, and carrying six .50 caliber machine guns, eight five-inch rockets and a 2,000-pound bomb load, the new Corsair is one of the most fearsome air weapons yet hurled at the Japs. The Pratt & Whitney R-2800-C engine of 2,100 horsepower, plus substantially more by the use of water injection, and a four-bladed Hamilton Standard Hydromatic propeller, give the new Corsair increased speed, climb and ceiling over its famous predecessor, the F4U-1.
